

GIRL MEETS A TRAGIC DEATH

Helen Murphy Dies at Glenn Sargeant Home Near Cabery Tuesday from Burns

The Glenn Sargeant home west of Cabery was the scene of a horrible and fatal accident Monday afternoon. Miss Helen Murphy, who for about five years had assisted Mrs. Sargeant with her household duties, was caring for a flock of about 700 little chicks. The brooder stove had been giving a bit of trouble and it was necessary for Miss Helen to replenish the furnace. Thinking that the fire was too far gone to start readily she resorted to the use of cobs and kerosene. Due to hidden burning coals a gas immediately formed, causing the flames to burst forth, when the door of the furnace was opened, and enveloped the young lady in a burning mass.

She immediately ran to the road screaming for help. To the neighbors and hired men who heard her outcries nothing was visible but a moving ball of fire. They speedily rushed to her assistance with coats and blankets and smothered the flames. The clothing with the exception of her shoes and stockings was burned from her body. Though she was severely burned she still had presence of mind enough to send the little boy into the basement to see if she had closed the door to save the house from burning and also possessed grit enough to walk back into the house.

Dr. Miller was immediately summoned but every effort to save her was in vain. Father Kennedy was called and administered to the suffering girl the last rites of the Holy Catholic church.

Miss Helen M. Murphy was born December 25, 1900, at Cardiff, Illinois, having attained the age of 22 years, 3 months and 23 days.

The funeral services were held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Sacred Heart church at Campus and will be laid to rest in the cemetery at Wilmington.

Helen possessed a lovable personality, an ever smiling disposition and will be missed at every turn by everyone who knew her.

A Painful Accident

About eleven o'clock Monday evening Otis Essington met with a very painful accident. He was busy assisting the neighbors and friends in caring for the late Helen Murphy at the Glenn Sargeant home shortly after her accident when he was asked to fill a gasoline lantern. After he had it filled and lighted he thought the air pressure was not strong enough so he opened it intending to pump it up when the gasoline spurted up into his face and ignited immediately burning him very severely about the face and head. If it had not been for the ready assistance of those near him he might have met with more serious results.

Sadler Baby Has Accident

Dorothy Sadler had the palm of her right hand severely burned Friday. The little lady has just learned to walk nicely and in turning about quickly, lost her balance and in reaching for something to steady herself threw her hand upon the hot stove. Before Mrs. Sadler was able to reach her the hand was badly blistered. Although it has given her a great deal of pain the wound is healing.

Forrest Farmer Commits Suicide

James B. Elmore, aged 62 years, took his own life at Forrest between 9 and 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning by shooting himself through the heart with a revolver.

That Elmore had been considering ending his life for several weeks past is evidenced by circumstances noted by many of his friends and acquaintances. It is stated that recently he closed up all of his business affairs at the bank where he had been in the habit of doing his banking and saw that all bills and other obligations were met. Another peculiarity noted of his recent actions was an almost daily visit to the livery stable of C. H. Myer, where he took his life. Upon these visits it has been recalled that he was seen making careful surveys of the building and constantly lettering about it.

Sunday morning he started into town horseback from his farm which is three-quarters of a mile north and three-quarters of a mile west of Forrest. Before reaching town he alighted and turned the horse loose upon the highway, so that it would return to the farm. Then walking the remainder of the way into town, he was seen to pass the Gagnon restaurant about 7:30 o'clock. The next seen of him was when his body was found in a stall of the C. H. Myer's livery stable around 9:30 o'clock. The body lay on the straw of the stall, the right arm extended and nearby a 32-20 calibre revolver. The fingers of the right hand were curved as though grasping a revolver. It was evident from the position of the body that Mr. Elmore had sat down on the floor of the stall and shot himself through the heart.

Coroner R. J. Harris was called to Forrest and conducted an inquest, which resulted in the jury returning the following verdict:

"We, the jury, sworn to inquire into the death of James B. Elmore, now lying dead at Forrest, Ill., under oath do find that he came to his death on the 15th day of April, 1923, from gunshot wound inflicted by himself by a 32-20 calibre revolver.—A. F. Duckett, foreman; L. R. Gagnon, G. W. Bryant, J. W. Brown, C. H. Rudd and J. W. Rudd."

Mr. Elmore was a bachelor and lived alone on his farm near Forrest. He leaves a sister and a brother residing at Forrest and a sister residing in the west.—Pontiac Leader.

Seeking Homes for Children

Rev. J. L. Hardesty, of Bloomington, was a visitor in Cullom and vicinity this week, in the interest of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, a non-sectarian home-finding agency operating in Illinois for the last 40 years and quite well known in this county, for whom it has handled 60 or more dependent or homeless little ones.

"I have been glad to hear some very interesting things about some of the children who have been placed in families hereabouts," declared Rev. Hardesty in conversation with Cullom friends. "It is always cheering to hear of good results that have been attained in the homes of those who have been brave and kind enough to attempt the mothering and fathering of homeless children. It is always more or less hazardous; but it is a wondrously worthwhile venture."

"Just now we have two very bright boys for whom we would like a home together, and it may be that some one in the territory of this paper will be willing to try these lads. They have been for a few months in a home that was in the country when we allowed them to go there. Since then the family has been obliged to move to a little town and change their family arrangements so much that they are now convinced they will not be able to do continually for these boys what will be required to make a success."

"Here is a picture of these husky lads, and any one can see that they are bright and able. The eldest is a little past eight and the younger six."

"We have other boys, also a few girls; there is a brother and sister who might make good in your home; also other of these older children, from six to fifteen years of age. We want them where they will learn to work, but of course we do not want them overworked or kept out of school in order to save the wages of a farm hand or a hired girl."

"If you, who read this, are interested in trying out some of these children, write soon to J. L. Hardesty 223 S. Leland, Bloomington, who will call or see that some other representative sees you."

Mrs. Eva L. Evans represented this Society for many years, and will be remembered by many who read this.

CABERY MAN IS LAID TO REST

Kelly S. Ferden Passed Away Last Thursday Morning from Effects of Influenza

Kelly S. Ferden was born October 7th, 1880, in Norton township at the Ferden homestead near Buckingham, Illinois, where he grew to manhood. He attended the public district school and the Lutheran parochial school and was confirmed April 7th, 1895, by the late Rev. A. Chr. Olsen, of the Grand Prairie Lutheran church.

On March 8th, 1910, he was married in Chicago to Miss Minnie Gebhardt, of Cabery, Ill.

He passed away peacefully at his home near Cabery on Thursday, April 12th, at 10:50 a. m. after a lingering illness of complications resulting from a severe attack of influenza in 1918 and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie Ferden, and their three children, Evelyn Faye, Della Ferne and Francis Carl.

His mother, Mrs. P. O. Ferden, of Herscher, and his brothers, Ole S., of Rolfe, Iowa; Peter P. and E. A., of Chesaning, Michigan; Abe, of Herscher, and Henry, of Buckingham, survive him also and were with him during his last hours. His father, two sisters and one brother have preceded him in death.

Kelly was resigned and maintained consciousness up to the last and anticipated the end as was indicated by calm deliberate preparations for the journey beyond.

He was a good citizen, a kind and generous husband and father, and a neighbor. In 1911, he was elected tax collector of Norton township and held this office creditably for two years.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Carl Vevela, of Rolfe, Ill.

Those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Ole Ferden, of Rolfe, Iowa; Pete and Edward Ferden, of Chesaning, Mich.; Ole T. Olsen, of Springfield, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ferden, of Kankakee; Mrs. C. F. Kallenberger, of Kankakee; Mrs. E. Dolezal, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gebhardt, of Chicago Heights; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gebhardt, of Chicago; Mrs. Anna Munson, of Gardiner; Mr. and Mrs. C. Thompson, of Chicago; Edward Hanson, of Kankakee; Albert Metzka, of Custer Park; Mrs. Will Gagle, of Kankakee, and family; Mrs. John Moore and numerous other friends who showed their respect to the deceased.

Life has been so dark and dreary,
I have suffered much since birth!

Now, I'm tired, weak and weary
Of the hardships here on earth.

Long I've prayed for peace and rest
'Neath this friendly bed of roses,

Where as a welcome transient guest,
My remains of clay repose.

But my spirit lives in glory,
With the Angels up Above,

Where, at last, I grasp the story
Of God's great and wondrous Love.

Now, that my immortal soul,
By His endless grace alone,

Has attained this cherished goal,
I, thank God, have found my Home.

Grant, O Lord, my mortal clay,
Peaceful sleep beneath the sod,

Till glorified, on Judgment Day,
I shall join my friends with God.

ASK BLUE LAWS FOR THE STATE

All Sunday Amusements Target of Bill Introduced at Springfield.

FINES, JAIL FOR VIOLATORS

Senate Passes Bill Making Social Disgraces Grounds for Divorce—Black Puts Herrin Blame on Hunter—Latter Contradicts.

Springfield.—Senate bill 36 was sprung on the Illinois legislature by Senator MacMurray (Rep., Chicago). The bill is aimed at Sunday amusements and, if passed, would prohibit Sunday theaters, Sunday baseball and any sports or amusements on Sunday. The bill, which came in unexpectedly, was referred to the senate committee on license and miscellany, of which Senator Barbour (Rep., Chicago), is chairman.

Social Disease Divorce Ground.
After a powerful appeal by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago health commissioner, in which he pictured in vivid terms the ravages of social diseases and the great menace to civilization which they present, the state senate passed the Mason bill, under which it will be possible to obtain a divorce if either husband or wife is infected with a venereal disease. Illinois is the first state to pass a law of this character.

Black Denies Herrin Blame.
Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black, testifying before the house committee investigating the Herrin massacre, placed the entire blame for his failure to send troops to Herrin on the shoulders of his personnel officer, Col. Samuel N. Hunter, who was his representative in Williamson county.

Hunter Contradicts Black.
A new version was given to the Herrin "conspiracy" when Col. Samuel N. Hunter, on the witness stand before the house investigating committee, declared that he had repeatedly begged for troops from Adj. Gen. Carlos E. Black, and that Black had as often refused to act, until the civil authorities at Marion requested aid.

In its essential features his testimony is in direct contradiction to that given by Black.
The Bonus Upholds Bonus.
In an opinion handed down by the state supreme court Wednesday, the bonus litigation was instituted by the American Legion to clear away all legal obstacles to the sale of the $55,000,000 in bonds from which the state plans to derive the money to compensate its former service men.

Brought as Friendly Test.
The bill was brought as a friendly test case in the name of Dr. Elmer E. Haxler, president of the Springfield chamber of commerce, who was represented by Noah C. Baintun, law partner of Lawrence Y. Sherman, former United States senator. The state was represented by Assistant Attorney General Albert D. Rodenberg, assisted by Harry Newby of Chicago, department judge advocate of the American Legion. Howard C. Knotts, commander of Sangamon post, also appeared on the side of the state.

Judge E. S. Smith in the Sangamon Circuit court dismissed the bill for want of equity and appeal was taken immediately to the supreme court.
House Advances Eight-Hour Bill.
The women's eight-hour bill emerged unscathed from the battle in the house. It was advanced to third reading.

All efforts to change the bill failed. Twelve amendments were defeated by large votes.

Courtesy and consideration for Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill (Rep., Du Page), Illinois' first woman legislator and foster mother of the bill, were partly responsible for the defeat of the amendments. Mrs. O'Neill asked the house to advance the bill without change and pass it to the senate. Mrs. O'Neill said she would agree to amendments removing nurses from its provisions.

Democrats in Clash.
Opposition to the bill was led by Representative Lee O'Neill Browne (Dem., La Salle). The climax came in a clash between Browne and Representative Michael L. Igoe (Dem., Chicago). Browne started with an amendment establishing work days for women at nine and ten hours, according to the character of their work. Working hours in a week ranged from fifty to sixty hours. Nurses were eliminated and a clause made the act inoperative in case of emergencies.

Browne's final amendment placed housemaids and other domestics in the scope of the act and penalized women workers who accepted extra work from another employer.

Lawyers in Lead in Both Houses—Farmers Are Next in Numbers.

Springfield.—Forty-six separate vocations are represented among members of the general assembly of Illinois. Lawyers, as has been the custom from time immemorial, lead all other occupations. In the senate they represent almost half of the body of 51. Forty-five members of the house and 22 of the senate are lawyers.

Farmers come next to lawyers in numerical strength, having 18 members in the house and five in the senate. Real estate, merchants, manufacturers, contractors, clerks and insurance men come next. Thirty-two professions and trades are represented by only one member each, among 204 legislators.

The trades are far in the minority, having but eight members, unless the calling of journalists is classed among the trades. There are two journalists listed, one in each of the branches.

Farrington Warns Miners.
Springfield.—The factional fight in the ranks of the Illinois union miners which centers here is assuming such proportions that disinterested bystanders look for a clash between some of the rivals for control of the miners' union in this state. The latest outbreak of hostilities came when Frank Farrington, in a full-page broadside in morning and afternoon papers here, warned Illinois miners against what he called "a strike" by John J. field sub-district, foreman of the Springfield "outlaw strike" in 1910, this summer under directions from Moscow.

Appropriation Bills Big.
Springfield.—Appropriation bills reaching the staggering sum of $128,172,569 already are pending in the Fifty-third general assembly, indicating that there must be a vigorous wielding of the pruning knife before the end of the session, or the governor will be kept busy with the veto. These totals do not include the state distributive school fund or the appropriation bills for several of the state departments, which are yet to be introduced.

To Add to Hospitals.
Springfield.—Additional buildings at existing institutions to relieve crowding, establishment of hydro-therapeutic plants modeled after the new one at the Kankakee State hospital and appointment of more officers with police powers at some of the institutions, are recommendations of a report of the house committee on charities and corrections, following a visit to the state charitable institutions.

Bonus Payments July 1.

Gen. Carlos E. Black announced, following the decision of the Illinois Supreme court upholding the bonus law.

Fiction on Decline.
Galesburg.—That Galesburg readers do not read merely for the love of a story is shown in the report of Miss Anna Hoover, librarian of the Galesburg public library. The report, which includes statistics for the past twelve months, shows that only 64 per cent of the books drawn are fiction. Usually the percentage of fiction is greater.

DESERTED RUM SHIP IS FOUND

All Sails Set, Anchor Dragging, but No Crew on Board.

SIGNS OF TERRIFIC BATTLE

Picked Up Two Miles Southeast of Whistling Buoy Off New York By U. S. Cutter—No Liquor on Board.

New York, April 16.—Without a soul on board, with all sails set and her anchor dragging, a fine two-masted schooner, the name of which is still in doubt, was boarded two miles southeast of Whistling buoy, off Point Outlet, at the entrance of Great South Bay, by Capt. M. J. Ryan of the United States coast guard cutter Manhattan.

Scattered about the deck and in the cabin were evidences of a terrific struggle. Other clues found on the abandoned vessel indicated that the entire crew were slain or kidnaped in a battle with one of the numerous rum pirate ships which prowl the Atlantic seaboard.

Scattered about the deck were scores of empty cartridge shells, and on the table in the captain's cabin was found a box containing about 1,000 cartridges and indications that some persons had helped themselves hurriedly to them. There also was a gun rack in the master's quarters, and it showed signs of having been emptied hurriedly. No weapons were found on board.

In the crew's quarters in the fore-cabin were found clothes which appear to indicate that the schooner's complement of men was between ten and fifteen, all of whom, including the master, have disappeared without leaving a trace.

Indications were plentiful that the boat had been engaged in the rum-running industry between Nova Scotia, Nassau, and Cuba and New York and the New Jersey coast, but no liquor was found on board.

On the deck was found lashed an exceptionally seaworthy motor boat, well equipped, upon the stern of which was painted the name "Mild of Canada, La Havre, Nova Scotia."

On the stern of the schooner was the original name, Edith Helen Bush, with no port of call discernible. Over this was painted "Patricia Behan," part of which seemed purposely to have been obliterated. Lloyd's register fails to list this name. The nearest approach to it is the Patricia Dehan, which left Halifax on Nov. 17 for Nassau and has not officially been reported since.

Old Bossie's Side of the Story

By FRED A. DAVIDSON

The dairy cow, or Old Bossie as we knew her in our childhood days, has long been the farmer's friend. Many is the time she has helped him over the hills of trouble and quite often has she been his ready means of making both ends meet. In fact, so frequently has she paid the taxes, or the landlord his exacting fees, that she is coming to be looked upon as an indispensable part of every farm. But that is not enough, for Old Bossie, like all other faithful servants, has not only been a help to the farmer but a faithful helper to all of us.

In these days of money making we are often inclined to let the financial value of a service overshadow its real worth in our lives, and I fear such has been the case with the dairy cow. We are laying too much weight on her value as a money maker and forgetting that she has performed a far greater service, for which not only the farmer, but all humanity can well bow to her name.

The early settler never thought of moving westward without a cow or two in his trail, and surely we cannot say it was because he figured on making a profit from the milk which could be sold. The dairy cow to him had an altogether different meaning. He looked upon her as a protector, for well did he know that of all the farm animals she alone could live on the native grasses and still provide him with a good and always ready wholesome food. She played a part in his life that no other animal could take and faithfully stood by him through all his trials. In fact, as the years rolled by he became more and more dependent upon her, and today he can well look upon her as the Foster Mother of the World. When we think of babies we always think of milk and the next thing we should think of is, that if it were not for Old Bossie half the little ones making their way into the world would soon pass out and the strong and stalwart youth would become a vision of the past.

Let us not stop here but take a peep into the future and stretch our imaginations to see a population so great that all the grain raised will have to be used to feed the people. You and I may never see it, but it is surely coming although it may be afar off. What then will happen to Old Bossie? Will she be passed on to the butcher and become a subject of story books like the monsters of old? No! As long as man lives Bossie will live also, because she of all the animals is most needed, and besides she lives on those products of the land which man cannot use as food for himself. She has won a permanent place in man's life and no doubt will continue to hold it till the last day ends. "Into this world with man so cunning, She has won her way as his steadfast friend, And like heralds of old, will stick to the end."

Simultaneous Chinch Bug Attack

Arrangements are now being made by the state entomologist's office and agricultural men of the University of Illinois for the simultaneous burning of chinch bugs in all of the affected counties as soon as the conditions are right. When all plans have been set in all of the counties, Dean Herbert Mumford of the college of agriculture at the university will tell the leaders in each county by radio from the university's broadcasting station to "apply the match."

The experimental work of the past eight years shows that approximately 55 per cent to 85 per cent of the bugs can be killed by burning them in their winter quarters," says State Entomologist Flint, "that such burning can be done at any time between the first of November and the first to the middle of April, but that to be effective it must be done over large areas."

"Up to the present time the weather has not been favorable for burning, but there is little question that we will have one or two periods of several days each before the bugs leave their winter quarters when effective burning can be done. Every farmer in the counties heavily infested should locate the places on his farm where the chinch bugs are wintering. A little time spent in examining cover along hedges, fences and woodlands, especially on the south sides, will enable one to discover where the bugs are numerous, keep these places in mind and be ready to burn thoroughly whenever the weather is dry."

"Most of the counties will be organized for burning within a short time, and every farmer should see to it that he burns all the bugs possible at every dry period between now and spring. This will not kill all of the bugs, but will reduce their damage at least one-half."

"A survey of the chinch bug conditions in this state made during this season has shown that chinch bugs are present in the following counties in sufficient numbers to cause a loss of at least five to ten bushels of corn to the acre in 1923 if the weather of this spring is favorable to their development: Hancock, Adams, Pike, Calhoun, Jersey, Madison, Macoupin, Scott, Morgan, Brown, Schuyler, McLean, McDonough, Fulton, Cass, Greene, Sangamon, Menard, Mason, Peoria, Woodford, Tazewell, Logan, Christian, Montgomery, Shelby, Moultrie, Platt, DeWitt, Ford, Champaign, Douglas, Coles, Cumberland, Clark, Edgar, Vermillion, Macon, Livingston, Grundy, Iroquois, and Kankakee. They are less numerous in about an equal number of counties as shown on the outline map in experiment circular number 265.

"Nothing will pay higher wages than burning chinch bugs during dry periods in these counties."

Organization of a Farm

Different types of farming are the result of attempts on the part of individual farmers to adopt systems of production which will give the largest net profit. With this object in mind, good farm organization takes into account market demand, a permanent agriculture and economy of operation as well as gross income.

The soil, used in a broad way to include rainfall, growing season, extremes of temperature and other factors determining the productivity of the soil, constitutes the starting point in farm organization. The variations in the fertility of soil on the same farm and the proportion of tillable land make the organization of each farm an individual problem.

The selection of the crop rotation, while it will be built around the maximum profit-paying crop of the region, should combine with this crop other crops, including legumes which provide a permanent system of agriculture and economical production. This means that an approved rotation of crops for a farm will include crops which in themselves are not necessarily the most profitable but which in combination with others provide for a wide margin of profit as possible between the cost of production and the selling price.

The live stock production for the average corn-belt farm can well be based, in the main, upon the crops, crop products, pasture to be marketed, the available labor supply, credit facilities, and market demands. Any good crop rotation in the corn-belt produces at least one-half its weight in unsalable by-products, or in products which can be sold to best advantage in the form of live stock, or live stock products.

Labor requirements vary with the system of production, which makes it advisable to develop the farm plan in accordance with the home labor supply, and the labor conditions of the community.

A field arrangement that fits the natural conditions of the farm and provides for economical operation and easy access from the buildings is essential to good farm organization and may be developed on any farm with careful planning and perseverance, and with little expense.

The basic principles in farm organization indicated above provide for diversity of production. Diversified farming when not carried to the extreme is preferred, because: (1) It provides a flexible system of farming that can best meet changing market demands. (2) It provides an insurance in years when some products prove unprofitable. (3) It utilizes man and horse labor and equipment to best advantage. (4) It furnishes the best means of utilizing crops and crop residues. (5) It makes for a permanent agriculture. (6) It helps insure maximum profits.

Know All About Breed

Record flock co-operators must learn all the general and special breed qualifications before sending out breeding stock. Knowing the color and shape of the breed is not enough.

Co-operators should send out only quality breeding stock, say extension men, as any other kind will not prove satisfactory. A disqualified male is a market bird and should be disposed of accordingly. A disqualified female may be kept as a layer, but should never be sold as a breeder.

Improvement of the flocks of the state is the main object of the record flock work being conducted by the college. Standards are placed high, for it is believed that this is the only way in which the flocks of the state can be improved. Some of the most progressive breeders of the state are combining heavy egg production with standard quality. They are finding that there is a greater demand for their stock than ever before and that the prices are higher.

Breeding for both high egg production and standard quality is a greater problem than breeding for either alone. Extension men say that there will always be a demand for quality stock.

DOES HOUSEWORK LIKE IT WAS PLAY

Mrs. Little Declares Tanlac Restored Full Strength After Overcoming Indigestion.

"Since taking Tanlac my troubles have left me, and I never tire of telling about it," declares Mrs. Johanna Little, 3032 N. 17th St., Kansas City, Mo.

"My food often caused me much distress from gas, sourness and heartburn, and I scarcely ever wanted to eat. Headaches, biliousness and pains in my back kept me in hot water, and I hardly ever got any restful sleep. My nerves were excited and I was so run down it was all I could do to look after my housework."

"I searched the city for the right medicine, and consider it fortunate that I found Tanlac. Indigestion, sleeplessness and nervousness never bothered me now. I can do my housework like it was play, and am strong and happy. Tanlac is simply grand."

WHY TAKE LAXATIVES?

Discovery by Science Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

As Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, it cannot gripe and, like pure water, it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Much Interest Being Shown in the Large Number of Women Safely Carried Through the Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Following Letters Are Impressive

Owing to modern methods of living, few women approach this perfectly natural change without experiencing very annoying and often painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, nervousness, headaches, melancholia and irritability are only a few of the symptoms incident to this trying period of a woman's life, and the following letters prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to overcome these abnormal conditions.

"Fisherville, Ky.—'For several months I was under the doctor's care as he said my nervousness, chills, hot flashes and weakness was caused by the Change of Life, but I did not seem to get any better. I was not able to work and spent most of my time in bed. A friend called to see me and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I cannot tell you how much good the medicine did me, as I had such a hard time before taking it. I can only advise every woman passing through the Change of Life to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it did so much for me.'—Mrs. EDWARD B. NEAL, Star Route, Fisherville, Ky."

The COTTAGE GARDENER

GARDEN CLUBS ARE OF GREAT BENEFIT

The Co-Operative Organizations Should Be Formed Before Garden Season Begins.

Co-operative garden clubs are of two general types—those whose members have their gardens on a large public tract of land and those whose members are backyard gardeners. In either case, the important thing is the "get-together" spirit among neighbors, the cultivation of the feeling that something is to be gained by a knowledge of what one's acquaintances are accomplishing.

The organization should be perfected before the garden season begins, and all practical details attended to.

such as arranging for the use of land or purchasing materials. A membership fee of 50 cents to $1 is frequently paid. A director, business manager, general supervisor or treasurer of the club should be elected, and in many cases it is well to hire a trained garden specialist to give instruction, at least at the start, thinks the United States Department of Agriculture.

Where a group of gardens is located on one piece of land, it is often necessary to provide special means for financing the cleaning up of the land, plowing and fitting the soil, and later for the polling of the gardens to prevent losses from theft or stray stock.

Clubs consisting of neighbors who plant gardens in their back yards must include provision for rendering a distinct service to their members. This service consists of the purchase of manure for fertilizer, plowing, supplying seeds or early plants. In a few instances the spraying of crops to control insects and diseases has been handled in a co-operative way, applying the spray wherever needed.

POINTS ON GARDEN PLANNING

Industrious Soil Worker Should Make Plans on Paper While Ground Is Frozen.

A garden laid out according to plan usually gives twice as many returns besides saving a lot of time in figuring out where to plant and what to plant next. Take a tape or yard stick and measure off the garden. Draw it to scale on paper and figure out while the ground is still frozen just where everything is to go and what crops are to succeed others.

If the garden space is small, say as small as 10 by 10 feet, it is a question of which vegetable will yield the most returns. A surprisingly large amount of vegetables can be grown in even this small space.

It is well to decide upon two main crops which may be grown at the same time or as a succession. Tomatoes and string beans offer a good solution with radishes, lettuce and young onions as the first crop, the tomatoes and beans to follow. The beans taking comparatively little nourishment from the soil compared with other vegetables may be grown in rows between the tomatoes, which should be placed three feet apart each way and trained to single stems tied to stout stakes at least five feet high. When the string beans have been harvested there will be opportunity to follow with crops of turnips or carrots for fall. A dozen tomato plants can be grown in this space, leaving plenty of room for the other crops between the rows. From a dozen well-grown tomato vines a lot of fruit may be harvested during the season.

If string beans are not desired, carrots, beets or turnips might be put in. In planning the garden, particularly a small one, it is best to run the rows north and south to get a better distribution of sunlight and so that one row does not cut off the supply of sunshine from another, which often happens when the rows are run east and west and taller vegetables are placed to the south end.

WHAT ROSES TO CHOOSE

Inquiries are frequently received by the United States Department of Agriculture as to the most desirable tea and hybrid roses for planting. A few of the many good varieties as shown by the tests in the National Rose Test garden at Arlington, Va., are: for pink blooms, Radiance, Mrs. Wakefield Christie Miller, La Tosca; for white, Kaiserine Augusta Victoria, White Mamon, Cochet; for red, Red Radiance, Gruss an Teplitz; for yellow, Marie Van Houtte, and Mrs. A. R. Waddell.

"THE SILVER CAR"
with Earle Williams and Kathlyn Adams
"The Silver Car" is a melodrama of unusual and timely interest. It is based on a popular novel of the day which deals with great international problems. A thrilling love story is interwoven in a tangle of diplomacy and intrigue. The lo-cale of the story furnishes ample scope for beautiful scenic backgrounds, especially those scenes laid in the ancestral castle of Count Michael Tenesar in Croatia. Mountain vistas and broad expanses of rolling landscape are the backgrounds for exciting dramatic action. Earle Williams has a role somewhat different from anything in which he has appeared before and in which he will prove popular. He plays the part of a secret agent endeavoring to secure a treaty in order to prevent exposure of a member of the British cabinet.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Appeals to Our Hearing

By DR. HENRY OSTROM
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.—Mark 4:9.

The air of our cities is full of sounds, some of melody and some of madness. On all hands the preacher is crying: "Listen, listen." In the rumble and clatter there is disclosed the importance of the words so often uttered by our Lord: "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." Yet though the clangor or may reveal some truth and the music of the finest instruments may reveal some more, what wealth of truth would remain unexpressed if we heard only these. Far deeper and of more importance than these sounds is the appeal for our hearing made by Truth, whether it be lesser truth, greater truth, or exalted truth.

1. There is the appeal to the deaf. "Having ears, hear ye not" (Mark 8:18). For what was the ear formed, if not for hearing? But here it is failing to function. The speaker is the Son of God; the result is as if He had not spoken. As well look for a harvest of grain on a frozen lake! Physically, deafness is a great affliction, but indescribably worse is spiritual deafness. To such, as if with the force of thunder may the words be said: "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

2. There is the appeal to the heedless hearers: "Take heed that you hear," says Jesus (Mark 4:24). No man can hear everything at once. He must, therefore, hear some things and not hear others. It is his duty to distinguish. You may hear "jazz" until your very soul seems to dance the jig of hysteria. You may hear vulgarity until your very soul seems septic. Or, you may hear truth until your very soul declares "Forever, O Lord, Thy word is settled in heaven." Our subtle adversary is so given to counterfeiting the good, that we must even distinguish between God's Word and all partial or fractional substitutes for it. As a drop of ink will stain a glass of water, so truth will be blackened by the admixture of falsehood.

3. There is partial hearing. "Jesus spake the word unto them as they were able to hear" (Mark 4:33). Ever must we expect to meet this condition. Ever will there be more than we can hear. But there is the incentive to listen eagerly, to listen alertly to the truth. It is with reference to this that Jesus is speaking his parables. He has attentive listeners. It is the picture of the teacher whose pupils are earnest students. But note the expression, "as they were able to hear." Here you find truth, not running away from the listener, and not standing still until welcomed, but rather, pleading, appealing, entreating the listener to receive it, and more. Can you hear more? then you shall have it. Who could think of this without longing to be a good hearer? You see, it is a question of being able, and as the athlete increases his ability by his exercises, that he may succeed the better when in the contest, so may our ability to hear be increased as we give attention to the truth.

4. "Hear Him" (Mark 9:7). That voice from the cloud of glory and the Mount of Transfiguration declaring: "This is My beloved Son; hear Him," told in each of the three first Gospels, was more than a passing announcement. In that miniature of the kingdom of God, the announcement was made as if to declare that in the time of His reign, men will recognize the authority which it carries. Men must come to realize that Christ must be heard. If they will not hear Him as Savior, then they must hear Him as Ruler and Judge. But that voice was uttered, too, as an appeal to souls, including yours and mine. Only one could walk among us and claim as very man: "I am the Truth." The appeal then is to hear Him. It means that we turn a deaf ear to the limitations, the shams, the falsehoods, and listen to the truth. "Hear Him," calling: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Hear Him saying: "I am the Good Shepherd, the Good Shepherd, layeth down His life for the sheep." Hear Him telling His own: "I go to prepare a place for you, and I will come again and receive you unto Myself." Hear Him in his assuring words: "I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you." "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." You have heard what He did, you have heard who He is, you have heard what He said, you have heard what you need; but have you heard Him? Only one voice amid the noises offers peace—"peace through the blood of the Cross."

"Hast thou heard him, seen him, known him?"
Is not this a captured heart?
Chief among ten thousand owned him,
Joyful, chose the better part?"

Optical Illusion.

Motion pictures are in reality a combination of still pictures. The first picture of the automobile shows the spokes of the wheels in one position. In the next exposure of the film were made when spoke number one had advanced far enough to be in the position of spoke number two, the picture would show no motion, as spokes are identical. If spoke number one had advanced less than half way to position of spoke two, the forward motion would be noticed. If, however, spoke one advanced more than half way, to the observer it would have the effect of spoke two moving backward, as that distance would be shorter and the apparent motion would be in that direction.

A Great Relief.

Canada Offers "Last Chance" for Virgin Farms

THINK of what you could produce on a farm of virgin fertility, without the burden of high-acreage cost. Think of what 20-to-40 bushel wheat would mean to you under these conditions, and of dairying and stock raising on cheap pasture land. Land pays for itself in a few crops—no artificial fertilizer—no heavy investment. You have envied the farmer who got his start when land was cheap. Here's your chance, perhaps your last chance, for the same brand of prosperity.

Western Canada—Your Opportunity!

Western Canada is the farmer's land of opportunity. Thousands of settlers who started not many years ago with little or nothing, are today the owners of fine farms, with comfortable homes and barns, thro' bred stock, dairy herds—all the marks of prosperity. Yet land is not dear—only $15 to $20 an acre for rich, virgin, prairie convenient to railways. Land is not dear in Western Canada—yet—because there is so much of it. But many settlers are expected in 1923, and now is your opportunity, before the best farms are taken. Get started. Taxes are reduced, not raised, on land brought under cultivation. On farm buildings, improvements, machinery, personal effects, automobile, etc., there is no tax at all. Canada wants workers—it wants its land farmed—and the farmers, through their municipal councils, have practical control of all local taxation.

Perfect Mother-in-Law.

She has a marvelous talent for timing her visits. She always arrives the day you need her, and never stays a day too long. She always brings cheer and helpfulness and a big basket of things from the old farm. She gets along beautifully with her sons-in-law and daughters-in-law. She knows how to please her grandchildren without spoiling them and ruining their digestion. She knows how and when to write a check and when to make beaten biscuit and fry a chicken. She has perfect health and a young mind. She is the perfect mother-in-law.

There is always a chance that you will get her if you marry often enough.—Life.

Lots of Experience.

A victim of chronic bronchitis called on a well-known physician to be examined. The doctor, after careful questioning, assured the patient that the ailment would respond readily to treatment.

"I suppose you must have had a great deal of experience with this disease," said the sufferer.

The physician smiled wisely, and replied:

"Why, my dear sir, I've had bronchitis myself for more than 15 years."—Baltimore Sun.

Special Renter's Plan—Buy Out of Profits

To aid and encourage the honest worker with perhaps little capital, the Canadian Government has a "Renter's Plan", whereby one may work a new or improved farm—"Try it out" for several years if desired—and buy a farm of his own out of profits.

Thirty-Two Years to Pay

For the benefit of those wishing to buy land, a national non-profit sharing organization—the Canada Colonization Association—has been established, with head office at Winnipeg, and United States office at St. Paul. This Association offers selected land convenient to railways—much of it at $15 to $20 per acre—on very small cash payment; no further payment until third year; balance extended over thirty years, but purchaser may pay up and obtain title at any time, if desired. Interest six per cent.

2 Women Fought as Soldiers

The unique records of two women serving as private soldiers, one throughout the revolutionary war and another the civil war, fighting on the battlefields and being wounded, have just been discovered in the pension bureau files.

Both women, one from Illinois, succeeded in hiding their sex from the other soldiers, and the fact that they were women was only disclosed when they were awarded pensions. Their names are Deborah Gannett and "Albert" D. J. Cashier, or Rodgers, and they are the only women in American history who were paid pensions for actual military service.

The first of these women warriors was Deborah Gannett, of Massachusetts. She enlisted April, 1781, in a Massachusetts regiment commanded by Col. Henry Jackson under the assumed name of Robert Shurtleff and served until November, 1783, as a private soldier, when she was honorably discharged.

She fought at Tarrytown, where she was wounded, and was in the ranks when Lord Cornwallis was captured. Her real identity was revealed after the war, and in 1838 congress passed a special bill for the relief of her heirs, awarding them a pension in which she was described as "Deborah Gannett, a soldier of the revolution."

The second woman was Albert D. J. Cashier, whose real name was Rodgers, but whose Christian name was never revealed. She enlisted as a private in Company G, 95th Illinois infantry, in August, 1862, and was mustered out in August, 1865. At the time she joined she was 19, with blue eyes and auburn hair. She gave her occupation as a farmer and her residence at Belvidere, Ill.

She went through the entire campaign with the 95th Illinois infantry, was in the engagements leading to the fall of Vicksburg, including a charge against the besieged city. She also participated in the Jackson and East Meridian raids, the Red river expeditions, capture of Fort De Russy, and the battles of Old River, Cloutierville, Mansura, and Yellow Bayou.

In April, 1864, she was in the thickest of the fight of Guntown, Miss., where the regiment lost heavily in killed and wounded. Later she participated in the battle of Nashville and the pursuit of Gen. Hood's defeated army, and was at Franklin, Columbia, Pulaski, Lawrenceburg, and East Port.

After being discharged, she returned to Illinois and worked on a farm herding cattle. Later she was awarded a pension and became an inmate of the Soldiers' home at Quincy, Ill., and remained there except for intervals, when she engaged in farm labor on farms in Boone, Kankakee and Livingston counties in Illinois.

It was on one of these occasions, while employed by State Senator Lish of Saunemin, Ill., that she was struck by an automobile, and it was while receiving surgical attention that her secret was discovered. She pleaded with the physicians not to reveal her sex. She died at Watertown, Ill., in 1915.

An investigation of her early life conducted by the pension bureau resulted in the discovery that she was born in Clogher Head, Ireland, where with a twin brother she herded sheep and dressed in male attire because she could do her work better.—Chicago Tribune, April 6.

Found a Wedding Ring

The Vrablik-Kerous-Golosinec Co. (we dare you to pronounce it), a Chicago commission firm, writes that one of their egg caddlers found a lady's wedding ring in a case of eggs received from N. Rosen last week. While Mr. Rosen buys eggs from dealers all over this territory, it is probable that this particular case of eggs came from Charlotte, Cullom or Buckingham. The company will be glad to return the ring if the owner will write them, giving a description of it. Their address is 724 West Randolph Street, Chicago.

House Falls on Cullom Man

Reuben Hartman received a fractured hip yesterday morning as a result of having a house fall on him. Rube had assisted in moving the old frame house, known as the Farmer property, in the east part of Cullom. The house had been jacked up, after it had been moved out near the alley to be used as a garage. Mr. Hartman, in the course of his work, got under the house. While lying under it, adjusting some blocks, the house sagged down on the corner under which he was working, pinning him to the ground by his hips. He was extricated as quickly as possible and taken to a physician.

He was taken to St. James hospital in the afternoon, where, by the aid of an X-ray it was found he had a fracture of the bone in his right hip. He remained in the hospital for treatment.

Cullom Has Building Boom

Several new buildings will be erected in and around Cullom this spring. Workmen have been getting the Longmyre lots in the east part of town ready for the erection of a dwelling house. The old frame house has been moved out to the alley on the south, where it will serve as a garage. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Longmyre will become residents of the village when their residence is completed.

Work is progressing on the Hirstein farm toward rebuilding the house, which was destroyed by fire two weeks ago. Some of the old wall can be utilized in the new. A two-story house will be erected for the Hirsteins by Contractor William Niemeyer and his men.

The Farmers State Bank will erect a new brick bank building on the three cornered railroad lot, just east of their present bank building.

HERSCHER

(From the Pilot).

Relatives yesterday received a message that Sebastian Saffer had died at his home in Omaha, Neb. The remains will reach Kankakee Friday for burial. He was a brother of Henry Saffer and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Mary Lochner and John and Frank Karcher of this city. His wife and three sons survive, John, of Chicago; Harry, of Minnesota, and Frank, of Omaha, Neb.

The hearing of Wm. Wierach vs. the High School board was heard before Judge DeSelm in Circuit court Saturday morning. The entire board, and J. C. Peterson, the township treasurer, was summoned, but T. L. Mau, clerk of the board, and the latter were the only witnesses to take the stand. It was brought out that the south site was the highest, because of a survey made some time ago when it was found that this section of town was seventeen and one half feet higher than the northern part. Also that the sewer is nearer the Weseman site. The judge instructed the attorneys to present the briefs in writing, giving them five days to prepare the brief and five for filing. It will probably be three weeks before a decision will be handed down.

Has Long Record

Decatur, Ill., April 13.—When Frank Saffer, Wabash first trick dispatcher for the 9th and 13th districts of Decatur, lifted the telephone harness from his head Thursday afternoon, he rounded out forty years of that strenuous life of moving trains over the road. While it may not constitute a long distance record, it is a remarkable and unusual performance.

Saffer began working for the Wabash at Campus on the north end on July 8, 1881, as night operator, 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. and in February, 1882, was transferred to Bement, where he stayed until March, 1883. He then went to Forrest and was promoted to dispatcher on April 13, 1883, at the age of twenty years, working the third trick. Any railroader will say that was a rather tender age to make a man a dispatcher in those days of single track and other conditions not nearly so convenient as now.

Reorganize Walton Bros. Co.

A reorganization of Walton Bros. Co., of Fairbury, has been made. J. W. Walton has disposed of his interests. Hugh W. Pence, Marshall Gordon and Will C. Schmidt will remain with the new company. Herbert Powell is understood to have secured control of 51 per cent of the stock of the concern. Mr. Walton is understood to be financing the construction of a new building on the old site to cost several times as much as the one recently destroyed by fire.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

(From Enquirer of April 14, 1898)

James Ogilvie was elected school trustee in township 29, range 9 last Saturday afternoon. There were but six ballots cast. Mr. Ogilvie was school treasurer in this township for twenty-two consecutive years. He also served Rogers township as supervisor for five years beginning in 1876.

The ladies of the St. Joseph church are making preparations for a supper on the evening of April 20th. It will be given at Mrs. Joseph Hemplar's restaurant from 5 o'clock to 12 o'clock p. m. A dance will also be given in the electric bowery, the music for which will be furnished by C. E. Bute's orchestra, of Kempton. The money raised from the supper and ball will be used in making needed repairs on the church and the affair should be well patronized.

For some months P. M. Ravenskilde, one of our jewelers and electrician, has been putting in his spare moments working upon a peculiarly constructed clock, the like of which is probably not to be found in the world. It is constructed on the perpetual motion plan. The works and face of the clock resemble that of any other. But in place of being manipulated by a spring, a wheel, fitted with small cups soldered on the outer rim, is connected with the works. A number of steel balls about the size of buckshot are arranged to feed automatically into the cups at the highest point on the wheel, the weight of the balls cause the wheel to revolve. When near the lowest point the balls are discharged one at a time into a receiver which is set in motion by the weight of the ball and by a peculiar and petite arrangement the ball is conveyed to the top of the wheel to again descend. Mr. Ravenskilde has made a number of different wheels to get the exact size to operate the clock correctly and has at last succeeded admirably. It is his intention to apply for a patent on the invention and then construct one on a larger scale. The clock is on exhibition in Mr. Ravenskilde's place of business and attracts considerable attention.

To Hold Postmaster Examination

A bulletin from the United States Civil Service Commission contains a long list of postoffices throughout the United States where a vacancy in the office of postmaster will exist on or before May 12th, 1923, as the date of competitive examinations to fill the positions.

Among the vacancies are the offices at Cullom and Kempton. Both these become vacant August 29th of this year. The Cullom office pays $1600 and the Kempton office $1200. While third class postoffices do not necessarily come under the civil service, the examinations have been conducted in this way since an executive order of May 10, 1921.

Applicants for the position must make application to be allowed to take the examination on special forms furnished by the government. The method of procedure is given in another article in this paper.

Among the other vacancies in Illinois are Buckley, $1500; Cornell, $1200; Gridley, $1700; Piper City, $1900; Rankin, $1600; Ransom, $1200; Saybrook, $1800.

Examinations will be held at Fairbury, Pontiac and Paxton. A competitor for any office can be examined at any of these places.

U. S. Civil Service Examination for Postmaster

The United States Civil Service Commission, at the request of the Postmaster General, announces a competitive examination for postmaster in Cullom and Kempton.

This examination is held under the President's order of May 10, 1921, and not under the civil service act and rules.

Apply at the local post office or to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for application Form 2241, and Forms 2223 and 2258 containing the date and places of examination and other definite information.

Applications must be properly executed on Form 2241, and filed with the Commission at Washington, D. C., in time to arrange for the examination.
